5. VESLit Week

VESLit Circle hosted its flagship event the VESLit Week, offering a diverse array of events that captivated participants. The events included in the literature week were Vivaad, Murder mystery, Game of shows, Policy pandemonium, Mad over Marketing. The week kicked off with “Vivaad,” a dynamic debate session where intellects clashed in compelling discussions. “Murder Mystery” added a thrilling twist, engaging attendees in solving a fictional crime, the first day consisted of character descriptions and details and the participants were given 24 hours to describe the murder and expose the killer! "Game of Shows" was a fun quiz event which included questions from various sitcoms, web-series across the globe. “Policy Pandemonium” delved into the complexities of socio-political discussions. The week concluded with “Mad Over Marketing” finals wherein the participants were given a total budget, using this budget the participants had to pitch their marketing strategy to revive their brand, showcasing the fusion of creativity and literature. VESLit Circle successfully blended intellectual discourse, entertainment, and creativity, providing a rich literary experience for participants and fostering a deeper appreciation for literature.

VReach / Department of INFT Report

The Department of Information Technology, in collaboration with VESIT's Institution's Innovation Council (IIC) and under the guidance of Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), organized an V-REACH Alumni Engagement Initiative session titled "Navigating the Journey to a Successful Product: Lessons for a Startup Innovator" on 12th February 2024. Mr. Jigar Kanadia, a distinguished alumnus from the class of Information Technology, 2010 and Product Owner at LearningMate Solutions Inc., delivered an insightful speech on design thinking and critical thinking, emphasizing their importance in the entrepreneurial journey.

The program aimed to provide a platform for covering various domains of learning and supporting outcome-based education while actively engaging stakeholders, including alumni, to share their national and international knowledge and experience with current students. Attendees gained practical insights into MVP, focusing on iterative development, minimum features, and customer feedback, essential for product success.

Overall, the event facilitated a dynamic exchange of ideas, equipping participants with valuable tools and knowledge to navigate the complexities of startup innovation effectively. It served as a
